

Harvard Only Member of "Big Three" Remaining in Struggle for Football Supremacy

Colgate and Pennsylvania Hard Pressed by Dartmouth

Crimson Riding High Through Victories Over Minor Elevens; Army Rapidly Coming to the Front; Princeton Has Material for Powerful Team

By Grantland Rice

And still the tangle grows. Syracuse, powerful enough to utterly annihilate Pittsburgh a week ago, is smashed in turn by Washington and Jefferson, and thereby glides moodily into the mist, out of the championship realm. West Point, beaten by Syracuse two weeks ago, overwhelms the eleven that downed Yale. And so it goes from week to week.

Out of the turmoil Colgate, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth and Harvard retain their prestige, but Harvard, unlike the former three, has faced no rugged test.

Colgate's conquest over Princeton was more of a triumph than the score of 7 to 1 would show. It was a triumph in view of the fact that on the two previous Saturdays, after a bad start, it had beaten Brown and Cornell, and Saturday met in the reincarnated Tiger team a foe of wonderfully improved mood.

To secure 42 points against three such elevens as Brown, Cornell and Princeton upon successive Saturdays, and to hold its goal line nearly defended, is no light achievement when one considers the fact that little Colgate has only 600 students to draw from and is therefore badly set in the way of available substitutes.

PRINCETON'S RISE

Bill Roper has one of the best green elevens at Princeton that we have ever seen. The Tiger coach had no nucleus of seasoned stars around which to build.

But this green team rose up and took a long look at the promised land on Saturday. After a bad start, it played Colgate to a standstill and gave evidences of coming power. The line play was immensely improved. And Roper, who has never as yet been in a field going to have a machine with more than normal drive.

Struble and Trimble proved their worth against Colgate. When Garretty and Laurie swung back into action, Princeton to play this quarter will give Princeton one of the best balanced backfields of the East. With a backfield of superior ability, and the line in the hands of Struble and Trimble, Princeton holds a heavy threat against both Harvard and Yale to-day, where a week ago the Tiger looked to be outclassed.

A green eleven is never as dependable as one that carries experience, and on this account is almost sure to have an inconsistent run. But there is enough stuff in that Tiger machine to beat almost any eleven it happens to be near its top form at the moment of test.

The main point is that Princeton will undoubtedly be a rugged opponent for both the Crimson and the Blue, with a good chance to win one or both games.

DARTMOUTH AND PENN

Dartmouth maintained her winning ways by stopping Cornell, but Penn's crushing defeat of the strong Lafayette team was one of the big features of the day. Penn has a great machine in motion this season, a machine that has a fine chance to win every game on its schedule.

Both Dartmouth and Penn draw their line this next Saturday. Dartmouth faces Colgate and Penn tackles Penn State. This will be Colgate's fourth hard battle in succession, but the eleven secured the line in the West or a finer player back than Gillo. And no team has a finer forward pass combination than Anderson and Watkins. These are two stars. Watkins was all-star selection, and in addition an aviator of note.

NAVY CARD A HANDICAP

The Navy has yet to face any sort of test. While the Army is engaged in rugged opposition, the Navy schedule will prove to be a big handicap. You can't develop an offense by running through nil.

In the same way Princeton has the edge over Harvard. Lafayette, Colgate and West Virginia University together will have helped develop Tiger stamina and training. Harvard has had no such opposition.

Pittsburgh came back in time to defeat Georgia Tech, the best team in the South. But Pittsburgh, thinking of her overwhelming defeat, must have gathered in a few flaming thoughts when the Washington and Jefferson teams, both of 19 to 0 against Syracuse, were posted. Either that one-sided victory went to the Syracuse dope in overpowering quantities or else Washington and Jefferson must have a whole of a machine.

Ohio State again jumped forward in the race for the Western conference championship by beating Michigan. Ohio State University has won the last two conference championships, and "Big" Harley remains the best running back in the West. The Ohio State University backfield is probably the best combination in the game today, for it can present four stars, which is practically enough.

New York Soccer Team Beats Interborough Club

After a year's absence from the soccer field the Interborough Football Club got into action again yesterday and met the New York Football Club team in a National League fixture at Lenox Oval. New York won by 3 goals to 1.

Bleich, New York's center, shot two goals in the first half and a third in the second after the restart. After a mix-up, was the first to score for Interborough. Wilkinson, off a pass by Bleich, shot the second goal.

Astoria Defeat Prospects

Outclassing their opponents in the Metropolitan League championship game at Astoria yesterday the players of the Astoria Football Club defeated the Prospect F. C. eleven, of Brooklyn, by the score of 5-1. Kaye, Azores, Frost and O'Leary scored for the winners in the first half and Azores in the second, when Davidson also earned the lone tally for the Prospects.

Columbia Men Greatly Pleased With Victory

Credit Given to Tom Thorp for Improvement of Line; Dissension in Backfield

The Columbia victory over Amherst is a big feather in the hats of Coach Fred Dawson and his first aid, Tom Thorp. To Thorp in particular much credit must be given, for his was the task of developing a line out of the somewhat shaky bunch of forwards who lined up against Williams. The work of this particular department of the team in the Amherst game was brilliant, to say the least. Thorp by his driving methods whipped together a line that the Amherst backs found impenetrable. The men charged low, tumbled hard, and were down under every punt.

But just as the line problem seems settled and everything looks smooth for a clear sail, there arises another obstacle to the success of the team. Time and again during Saturday's game, after signals had been called, the backs were called aside for a consultation. The judgment of the quarterback apparently was being questioned. Finally the referee became impatient at the repeated delays and penalized Columbia five yards for delaying the game.

It was noted and commented upon on the side lines during the game that after the Blue and White were started on a drive there would come a consultation, during which the opponents of the Blue and White were given a chance to recover themselves and the impetus was lost.

Although Columbia completely out-ran the Amherst men, keeping the ball almost entirely in Amherst territory, the home eleven barely won by two points. With the line opening holes repeatedly and the backfield containing individuals who could take advantage of these opportunities, it became obvious that there was dissension among the backs.

Quigley is a quarterback who has had probably more football experience than any man on the team. He played at Holy Cross in 1916. The following fall he played with Newport, and was with that service team in 1918. While playing there he made a name for himself as a clever, heady player. In his capacity of quarterback on the team he should be the sole judge of the choice of plays, except possibly when within reach of the goal, a consultation might be called, if his choice seemed inexpedient.

The showing of the team outside of this weakness was most satisfactory. Mechanically it is a much superior team to that which was defeated by Williams. The tackling has improved remarkably. The men were down under punts, on top of the receiver before he could move. The line opened up big holes for the backs, and gave them a chance to get started.

The interference has improved, although this department must still be strengthened. The coaches have finally made an imposing looking outfit out of the green eleven that started the season. If these few faults are corrected the team should go through the rest of the season without defeat and provide a brilliant battle Thanksgiving Day with Brown.

The men showed their good condition by coming out of Saturday's game with no injuries. The exception was Charlie Shaw, who, it is thought, received a broken nose. The men will be a rather light workout to day and will be ready for the game with the coaches. Union is on the schedule for this Saturday, and a comparatively easy contest is anticipated.

Robins Dry Dock Men Defeat Eric A. A. Team

Playing to a large crowd at Todd Field in Brooklyn yesterday, the Robins Dry Dock soccer eleven won an important victory by 3 goals to 1 over the Eric A. A. of Newark, in the National League championships. Retaining the lead in the competition.

Ratigan, former Bethlehem star, took a pass from Miller after twenty minutes of play and found Eric, who for the first point of the game. Koelsch equalized soon after the restart. Off a pass by Garside, Shanhol placed the Robins again in the lead, and McGee, by clever dodging, clinched the victory. A penalty kick was awarded to the Jerseymen but Posa, who was the goalkeeper, saved it.

Columbia School Run Set for November 22

For the first time since 1915 the Columbia interschool cross-country run will be held on the morning of November 22. Considerable interest attaches to this year's event as permanent possession of the trophy may go to some high school.

Celts and Rangers Tie

A tie game at one goal for each side resulted from the meeting in the Metropolitan League game between the Rangers and Celts yesterday at the Polo Grounds, in Brooklyn, yesterday. Benzenberg, of the Rangers, scored in the first period, and Hoyle, of the Celts, tied in the second.

Tebbo Soccer Team on Top

The Tebbo Yacht Basin soccer eleven traveled to Weehawken for their Metropolitan League game with the West New York Blues yesterday and came away with a 7-2 victory. Leading at half time by 5-0, Mitchell shot three goals and Puxty, Harvey, Lee and Haupt one each. For the losers Tracy and McGroff scored.

Conference Title Lies Among Ohio, Chicago and Wisconsin

Experts agree that the smashing Ohio eleven is as powerful and evenly matched a team as has graced a Western gridiron in years. The Ohioans are giving a perfect exhibition of team play, tackling with deadly force, and defensively they appear to be unbeatable. Chicago and Wisconsin continues to play with the same dash and speed that won him all-American berth.

Perhaps the biggest upsets Saturday were the defeats of Minnesota and Illinois. After being held almost powerless for the periods, Wisconsin unmasked a smashing offense that broke down the Illinois line and paved the way for a 14 to 10 victory. Minnesota fell before Iowa, being outplayed except for a few minutes in the third quarter when the Gophers fought their way down the field for a touchdown.

The Chicago eleven, which had remained a mystery to its followers, revealed its class yesterday in its triumph over Northwestern. Chicago battled through the crippled Northwestern eleven for a safe lead early in the first period, and was not content to reveal any trick plays or puzzling formations. Chicago's Staggs has devised for the games with Illinois and Michigan within the next two weeks.

3-Year-Olds Now Reign on American Turf

That the three-year-olds and the thoroughbreds in the handicap division were vastly superior to the two-year-olds which were seen on the American turf during the current season is the opinion of that eminent authority, W. S. Vosburgh, the official handicapper of the Jockey Club.

Outside of Man o' War, a two-year-old of very highest quality," said the expert yesterday at the Empire City track, "we didn't have a juvenile that has given promise of greatness next year. In marked contrast, the three-year-olds are superior to anything that I can recall for a long time."

"Sir Barton and Purchase are capable of handling the best of the handicap division at practically even weights, and a testimonial to their merit, and there is no doubting the quality of Cudgel, Lucille, Naturalist, Exterminator, The Porter, War Cloud, Star Master and other handicap horses that have been in the public eye this season."

"Audacious, Thunderclap, Hannibal and Mad Hatter are four three-year-olds that have done noteworthy things this season, but they have been eclipsed by the great pair I have named above. Any one of them, however, may be top makers in 1920, and these, together with Sir Barton and Purchase, will make the handicap division of 1920 most formidable."

"I heard recently some one comment on the danger of two or three men establishing a corner on our best race horses. Such a thing has been talked of before, but there is no fear of this, as race horses have a habit of coming unbidden from the most unlooked-for sources."

"Backward two-year-olds frequently develop into the best three-year-olds. Cudgel and Exterminator are staking examples of this. I mention them because the public to-day is familiar with them, but turf history is studded with examples of ugly ducklings developing into the greatest three-year-olds of his day was a conspicuous example. He ran fourteen times as a two-year-old and won only once. His only defeat was at the Coney Island Jockey Club, when he lost to Eolus."

"Eolus and one of his best sons, Eole, never ran as two-year-olds. Eole was a mediocre two-year-old, but he developed into one of our very greatest race horses. Sir Barton himself did nothing beyond running second for the Futurity. Therefore some of the comparatively unknown two-year-olds may be stars in 1920."

Poinsett Loses at Golf On Forest Park Links

Pat Doyle, of the Deal, N. J., golf club, and George Fotheringham, former open champion of South Africa, were carried to the twentieth hole yesterday to defeat Allan P. Poinsett, champion of the New York Newspaper Club and holder of the New York City public links title, and Devereux Lord, another local amateur, over the links of Forest Park, Brooklyn.

"Birdie" three by Doyle decided the match. The scores for the eighteen holes were Poinsett 74, Doyle and Lord each 76 and Fotheringham 78.

Lou Dillon Taken to Coast

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 26.—Lou Dillon, that famous racing mare who formerly held the world's trotting championship, with a record of 1:59.4, is to be taken from here to California to spend the rest of her life. Lou Dillon is more than twenty-one years old.

Penn Continues To Hold Scoring Lead in the East

By BRIGGS

The University of Pennsylvania, with a clean slate of five victories and a grand point total of 237, continues to lead the Eastern colleges on the gridiron this fall. Harvard, Dartmouth and Lehigh have also scored five consecutive triumphs. Colgate, Washington and Jefferson and Wesleyan have a clean slate of four victories. The goal lines of Harvard, Lehigh, Wesleyan and W. & J. have not been crossed to date. Robertson, Dartmouth's left halfback, still tops the list in scoring. The following records include games played Saturday, October 25:
